A cluster of balloons launched by Palestinian protesters approaches the Gaza-Israel barrier. These homemade devices, which are attached to incendiary or combustible materials, have gained popularity among resource-poor Great March of Return protesters. (19 October, Jack Guez/AFP/Getty Images)

A group of Palestinian medics evacuate a wounded protester participating in the Great March of Return demonstration along the barrier between Israel and Khan Yunis. The medic at the front leads the group with her hands up, signaling to Israeli forces that they are unarmed. (9 November, Said Khatib/AFP/Getty Images)

As Israeli president Reuven Rivlin meets with German chancellor Angela Merkel inside his Jerusalem residence, a group of Palestinian Bedouin girls from Khan al-Ahmar confront Israeli security guards outside. They are protesting the planned demolition of their school for Israeli settlement, which has been met with international condemnation. (4 October, Ahmad Gharabli/AFP/Getty Images)

Three young Palestinian men sew the uniforms for UNRWA-run girls' schools. The agency, which operates over seven hundred free schools for Palestinian refugees in the occupied territories as well as in Syria, Lebanon, and Jordan, is facing dire budgetary challenges due to U.S. president Donald Trump's decision to cut aid to the agency. This textile workshop, which also supplies the Palestinian Authority, is the only one of its kind in the occupied West Bank city of Hebron. (29 August, Hazem Bader/AFP/Getty Images)

A young girl sits atop the front wheel of a motorcycle and sips from cup of juice against a backdrop of protesters participating in the Great March of Return along the Gaza-Israel barrier. (5 October, Anas Baba/AFP/Getty Images)

This triptych captures the descent of an Israeli drone successfully brought down by a Palestinian net thrown during a demonstration along the Gaza-Israel barrier in central Gaza. (7 September, Said Khatib/AFP/Getty Images)

Two Israeli men engage in an altercation during a protest near Nahal Oz, a kibbutz adjacent to the Gaza-Israel barrier. Protests by Israeli and international activists are part of an ongoing display of solidarity with, and support for, the people of Gaza and the Palestinian right of return. As such, they are sometimes disrupted by Israeli security forces and disgruntled kibbutz residents. (5 October, Jack Guez/AFP/Getty Images)

Hundreds of Palestinians gather in the West Bank city of Ramallah to watch a live stream of Palestinian president Mahmoud Abbas's address to the seventy-third session of the General Assembly at the United Nations in New York. (27 September, Abbas Momani/AFP/Getty Images)

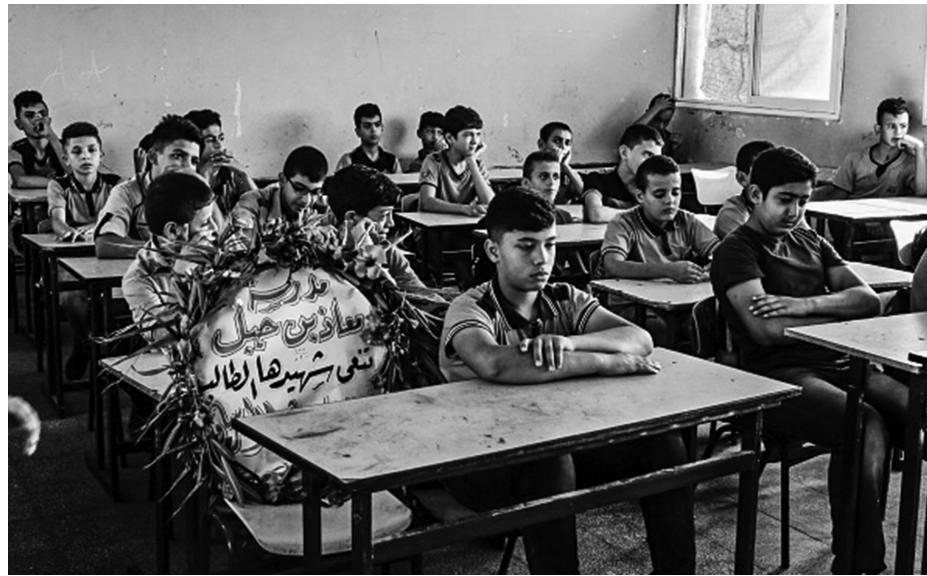

A sign featuring a howling wolf is posted at the entrance of the West Bank Israeli settlement Mitzpe Kramim. Though the land on which the outpost was established in 1999 does not belong to the State of Israel, and indeed is claimed by a group of Palestinians with title deeds recognized by the Palestinian Authority, on 28 August Jerusalem District Court judge Aaron Darel ruled in favor of the settlers, citing a policy that says settlements erected in "good faith," though without the necessary permits, may stand. A woman sits before an open window and washes mulukhiyya at her home in the Arroub refugee camp near Hebron. A portrait of the late Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, whose birthday many Palestinians celebrated in late August, hangs behind her. (2 September, Hazem Bader/AFP/Getty Images)

Palestinian schoolboys in Gaza City contend with the death of their classmate, Faris Hafiz al-Sirawi, who was fatally shot by Israeli forces on 5 October as he took part in the Great March of Return protest at the Israel-Gaza barrier. Al-Sirawi's empty seat is adorned by a commemorative wreath donated by his school. (6 October, Said Khatib/AFP/Getty Images)

A young Palestinian woman from Shu'fat in East Jerusalem prepares to vote in local Israeli elections. This election marked the first time polling stations were open in parts of the Israeli-occupied Syrian Golan Heights. (30 October, Ahmad Gharabli/AFP/Getty Images)

A technician at the Artificial Limbs and Polio Center in Gaza City works on the cast of a prosthetic leg. Among other services, the center helps rehabilitate Palestinians wounded in the Great March of Return protests. (25 October, Thomas Coex/AFP/Getty Images)

Young members of a coed Palestinian swim club work on their stroke technique on the shore of Bayt Lahiya in northern Gaza. (4 October, Said Khatib/AFP/Getty Images)
